Get together for a great family day out

LIVE music, falconry and amazing stunts performed by cars and bikes are just a few of the things this year's Great Get Together (GGT) has in store for visitors on Saturday (June 25).

Taking place at the Royal Artillery Barracks, Woolwich, GGT is the royal borough's biggest community celebration of the year and also coincides with national Armed Forces Day.

There are so many attractions to look forward to, including a family funfair, vintage vehicles and a range of different stalls. New to the event this year is the camel racing and The Imps motorcycle display team, whose youngest performer is just five years old.

Visitors can try have-a-go sports sessions and children can take on an assault course. Under-5s can keep busy in their own play zone, and there will be fairground rides and a variety of displays from vintage motorbikes to Meccano models.

The live music stage will showcase local musicians, while bands, stunt vehicle shows and other displays take place in the large arena at the heart of the site. Dance demonstrations, BMX bike displays, falconry and other smaller displays will be entertaining the crowds at a second smaller arena nearby.

Stalls will have information about local services and community groups, and the healthy living zone will have plenty of tips. The day starts at 11am and finishes at 6pm. Entry is free and many of the attractions are also free of charge.

Standing up against hatred

COUNCILLORS, faith leaders and local people attended a candlelit vigil at Woolwich Town Hall to express deepest condolences to the people of Orlando, USA, following a mass shooting at a gay club in the early hours of June 12.

Deputy council Leader Danny Thorpe led the vigil, urging people to stand up against hatred and violence. He said: "The events in Orlando have affected us all over the past 24 hours. An act of both terror and hate represents a challenge to the values that we hold dear to our hearts."

"That such an event has already become a vehicle for people to exploit and use to inflame tension between communities means that we must all make a stand to reaffirm our objection to violence and hatred, and our belief that freedom of expression and equality is so important."

He added: "We have a strong and vibrant LGBT community in this borough. They are our teachers, police officers, doctors, social workers, friends, family and our loved ones.

"Whenever we are confronted by such horror, let's remember that love wins."

Residents were able to sign a book of condolence which was available in the town hall until yesterday (June 20).

Council lead Denise Hyland added: "This shocking act of terror and hate attacks the freedom that we defend strongly in tolerant societies. We stand shoulder to shoulder with the people of Orlando as they try to come to terms with this strike at their community."

The borough has funded the METRO charity which supports LGBT people for over 33 years and its chief executive Dr Greg Ussher said: "Sadly such hate continues to be a part of our world, which is why the work that we do in challenging hate, embracing and celebrating difference is still so vitally needed. We are so very grateful to the royal borough for their support of this work."

A LOCAL charity received in excess of 10 tonnes of clothes for Syrian refugees at a collection in the town hall last week (June 14-15).

GRACE (Greenwich Refugee Aid: clothing, essentials), welcomed new and old volunteers from all corners of the community to quality-check donations and pack everything ready for shipping to refugee camps in Greek islands next week. As well as clothing, public donations included buggies, nappies, sanitary products and bedding.

Charity founder Claire Papazidis said:

"Devastated and saddened by news reports of refugee crisis, I set-up GRACE to bring people in the community together to send aid and essential supplies to people fleeing for safety as the humanitarian crisis continues."

GRACE's next appeal to send aid to refugees camped in mainland Greece is in the planning stage and is scheduled for the end of July.

A matter of life before death

THE royal borough is backing a new initiative that supports local people at the end of life. Earlier this month, Cllr David Gardner, the council's cabinet member for health and adult social care, added his name to the list of proud signatories of the Greenwich and Bexley Community Hospice's End of Life Charter.

The Charter has been created in partnership with patients, carers, residents, and health and social care professionals, and aims to make death and dying everyone's business by getting people, families, communities, health and social care networks and organisations to work together to help people at the end of life.

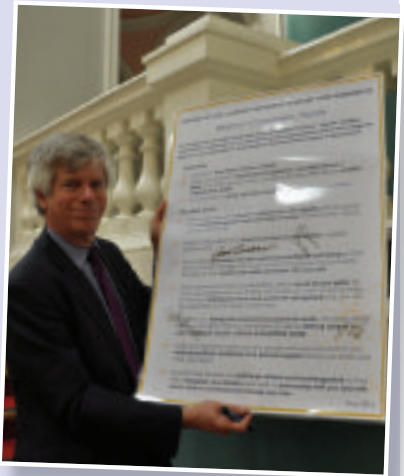

Cllr Gardner said: "This is an excellent initiative by our superb local Greenwich and Bexley Hospice which we are pleased to support. Everyone deserves respect, compassion and dignity at the end of their life. The royal borough is firmly committed to upholding these principles throughout its care services and I welcome the same commitment being made by both our providers and partners."

Representatives of Lewisham & Greenwich NHS Trust, the Clinical Commissioning Group and Healthwatch organisations, care homes, and faith and community groups in both boroughs will also be signing the Charter in the next few weeks.

The Greenwich and Bexley Community

Hospice is coordinating signatories and would welcome the opportunity to meet with groups and organisations interested in signing the Charter and supporting its aims.

Smart ways to cure tunnel vision

NEW smart technology designed to make travel easier and safer is being trialled in Greenwich and Woolwich foot tunnels.

The foot tunnels are important links across the river, and well-used by pedestrians and cyclists alike, so the council is trialling 'smart' technology to manage the space more effectively for the benefit of all users.

The #techunnel trial is using smart technology to count the number of people travelling through the tunnel. When the tunnel is busy, it will automatically trigger different messages on overhead digital display boards - to indicate how busy the tunnel is.

The tech trial is part of developments being considered by the council, to make access to, and using the Greenwich and Woolwich foot tunnels easier. Another is a live update on the council's website that will enable tunnel users to check the automatic lifts are working normally.

Cllr Sizwe James, the royal borough's cabinet member for transport, economy and smart cities said: "The foot tunnels are a well-used means of people being able to travel easily, and at no cost, back and forth across the river. We know that, although cycling is banned under the by-law, many cyclists find the tunnels incredibly useful to get to and from work. Before we can look at making any changes, we need to know exactly how many people - pedestrians and cyclists - are using the tunnels on a daily basis and how we can manage them safely.

"So, please bear with us while we test this exciting new technology and our overhead messages, and help us - whether you're a pedestrian or a cyclist - by giving us your feedback."

The campaign is being trialled in both foot tunnels over the summer and tunnel users can give their feedback or suggestions to cycling-strategy@royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Care commitment to care workers

HOME care bosses have agreed to pay the London Living Wage to employees in a pledge to care workers.

Reps from care providers - Care Outlook, Eleanor Care and London Care - signed the London Living Wage Declaration for care workers earlier this month.

The declaration, effective from July 4, is part of the commitment made by the royal borough and the Greenwich Clinical Commissioning Group to developing a skilled, local workforce for the new Greenwich Home Support service and improving terms and conditions for care workers. As part of the declaration, the royal borough and its care providers have promised to:

- pay the London Living Wage to all staff
- pay staff travel time to and from appointments
- offer flexible working practices, including a flexible permanent contract
- pay statutory sick pay
- adopt other terms of the Unison Ethical Care Charter

Cllr David Gardner, the council's cabinet member for health and adult social care, attended the signing of the pledge on June 7 and said: "This is a landmark agreement between the Royal Borough of Greenwich, the Greenwich Clinical Commissioning Group and its contracted home care providers. The borough's care workers strive tirelessly to provide the very best in home care support and I'm delighted that their deserved pay and benefits have been enshrined in this declaration."

Cllr Chris Kirby, the cabinet member for human resources, co-operatives and social enterprises added: "This declaration reinforces our reputation as a Living Wage accredited council; we will always strongly encourage employers in this sector and in the borough more generally, to pay the London Living Wage."

● Residents can find information on how to access health and social care services at the Greenwich Community Directory, visit www.greenwichcommunitydirectory.org.uk

● For general information on the range of care services on offer in the borough, please contact Adult Social Care at aops, contact.officers@royalgreenwich.gov.uk or call 020 8921 2304.

● Greenwich Mencap achieved London Living Accreditation last month after pledging to improve staff qualifications and salaries.

MAKING A DECLARATION: Cllr Gardner oversees the signing of the pledge with Marc Santhipillai (seated) from Eleanor Care, Peter Jerrari from Care Outlook and Sally Wheeler from London Care.

All aboard for sailing challenge

A DEPTFORD sailing club is inviting people to hit the decks for a rowing challenge.

The Deptford-based AHOY Centre is a charity which specialises in offering disadvantaged young people and disabled people a chance to build life-skills through sailing and rowing.

It's organising three rowing challenges to help the centre raise valuable funds for their work.

The challenges could be a good opportunity for company team-building or for groups of friends who want to get fitter, build camaraderie and experience the outdoors.

Participants can take up the 8.5-mile Meridian Pull challenge and row through the centre of London from Westminster to Greenwich. There are dates for this event in June, August, September and October, with up to 15 teams participating on each occasion.

The second challenge is a 21-mile Great River Race, known as 'London's marathon on the river,' where more than 300 crews participate making it the biggest and most prestigious event of its kind in Europe.

Teams could even try their hand at the ultimate challenge - the AHOY Channel Row, taking place on the open sea in June and July.

The centre provides all the equipment and training and also has a specially designed dry rowing gym with electronically linked rowing machines. If you have a disability but have upper body movement the AHOY Centre has adaptive equipment to enable most people to participate.

Funds raised from the rowing challenges will help the AHOY Centre to build on the range of sailing, rowing and water based activities it runs for young people every year.

● The minimum number of entrants in a team is six, and age limits apply. To find out more about the challenges, to donate, or for volunteering options please contact the AHOY Centre. Tel: 0208 691 7502. Email: rowing@ahoy.org.uk

● Visit www.ahoy.org.uk for further details.

The coffee and cake morning is at St Albans Church hall, Southold Rise, Eltham, and includes a raffle with prizes including gift vouchers, tickets for outings such as Kew Gardens and bowling, and a beauty hamper.

INVITATION TO A PUBLIC EXHIBITION

PROPOSALS FOR SPRAY STREET QUARTER (PLUMSTEAD ROAD COVERED MARKET AND ADJOINING LAND), WOOLWICH SE18

Regeneration specialist, St. Modwen and housing association, Notting Hill Housing invite you to a public exhibition to find out about the initial ideas for Spray Street Quarter: the proposal for the regeneration of land between Spray Street and Plumstead Road, Woolwich. The exhibition will provide an opportunity to find out more about the emerging proposals, discuss them with the design team and provide feedback before the plans are developed further.

The new Spray Street Quarter will transform the area, bringing an independent cinema, a gym and around 600 new homes (35 per cent of which will be affordable homes), as well as workspace, new restaurants, cafés and shops. It will regenerate a prominent site, linking the forthcoming Crossrail station at Royal Arsenal with the DLR, National Rail and bus services in the town centre, encouraging further investment in Woolwich. The redevelopment will also create employment opportunities for local people.

If you would like any more information, or if you have any queries, please contact us on 020 7323 3544 or info@spraystreetquarter.co.uk

A second public exhibition on the proposals will be held in advance of a planning application being submitted next summer.

Celebrations for a royal birthday

A LOOK-ALIKE Queen Elizabeth sliced a Union flag cake as a highlight of the day at The Green in Winchcomb Gardens, Eltham.

The street party, organised by residents Liz Rackley and Tessie Nutman, saw residents playing a range of traditional games, with a tug-of-war and a sack race, along with dancing and fancy dress. Liz told GT: "It was an amazing day. Everyone contributed, and brought food and drink. We also had a wonderful Union flag-themed cake donated to us by local resident Heather, for which we are very grateful."

PULL & PUSH: neighbours join in massive tug 'o' war contest and enjoyed speeches by former mayor Norman Adams and resident Jean Rowe NEIGHBOURS in Blackheath's Harraden Road held a street party to celebrate the Queen's 90th birthday along with its own 80th milestone.

Speeches were given by the street's longest standing resident, Jean Rowe and Cllr Norman Adams, the former mayor, who grew up on the street.

Jean Rowe, who moved in just after the first houses were built 80 years ago, talked about the history of the street including the fact that the first houses sold for £775 each. Cllr Adams and his partner, Serena Lovelace, were treated to a tour of the house he lived in during his youth.

The weather held out for most of the afternoon and residents held a cake sale, and a range of fun activities including a tug of war between the residents of odd and even number houses.

HER MAJESTY surprised pupils at Alexander McLeod primary school in Abbey Wood (left and right). She was played by former teacher Dot Ray who worked at the school for 27 years with another 10 as a volunteer. Pupils had made royal headgear to parade before their special guest as part of the school's annual music festival, which had a royal theme for the Queen's birthday

MORE than 400 Thamesmead residents celebrated the Queen's 90th birthday at the Moorings street party, where the community voted to re-name a path after former resident Ted Claridge.

Co-founder of community development charity Trust Thamesmead, part of the Peabody Group, and former mayor of Greenwich Councillor, Ted Claridge (1925 – 2011) was recognised for his contribution to Thamesmead with voters choosing to rename the Wayleave, known locally as The Black Path, as Claridge Way.

Recently elected Mayor of Greenwich Cllr Olu Babatola – a Moorings resident and ward councillor – was the guest of honour.

Plumstead hosts biggest fair ever

MORE than forty years on and Plumstead Make Merry continues to be as popular as ever.

More than 5,000 people turned up for the borough's longest running community festival, which was opened by the new mayor, Cllr Olu Babatola on June 11. Attractions included traditional Nepalese dancing, displays of dance, singing and gymnastics by young performers, and the popular fruit and vegetable sculpting competition. A fancy dress competition held to mark the Queen's 90th birthday was won by local writer Alison Miller and Riverford won the best dressed stall event. Sarah Harper, chair of the Make Merry committee, said: "Every year the festival gets bigger and better. This really is testament to the commitment of our small team of volunteers who work hard throughout the year to make sure the Make Merry happens. Long may it continue."

Growing salad leaves is rocket science

by Laraine Clay

CHILDREN at a Greenwich primary school are helping to push back the boundaries of space science - by growing rocket plants.

Halstow Primary School is one of 10,000 schools selected to take part in the Rocket Science experiment being run by the Royal Horticultural Society in partnership with the UK Space Agency.

Last September 2kg of rocket seeds were taken to the International Space Station where they were kept for six months in microgravity, or weightlessness, being looked after by British astronaut Major Tim Peake.

They were sent back to earth in April and the seeds dispersed in packs of 100 to different schools.

Now Halstow pupils will be planting the seeds along with others that have not been into space, and will investigate if there are any differences in their growth. They will not know which seeds are which, and will record measurements and other observations over a period of seven weeks.

Once the data has been compiled, the information will be analysed by professional statisticians and interpreted by scientists, who will then publish their findings.

Jacquie Dearness, science co-ordinator at Halstow Primary, said: "We are thrilled to be taking part in Rocket Science. It will be an exciting way for our young scientists to contribute to a national experiment and share their learning with the whole school community."

"Hopefully their experience with Rocket Science will inspire them to get involved with more STEM [science, technology, engineering and maths] subjects, including horticulture, plant science and the space industry as a whole."

Red Lion roars back after makeover

PUB gunnwr James Jones presented a £250 cheque to Demelza children's hospice to mark a new look at the Red Lion in Shooters Hill.

The money was presented as part of a launch night of the revamped pub attended by Eltham MP Clive Efford and council leader Cllr Denise Hyland.

Demelza provides specialist care for ill babies, children and young people who have life limiting or life threatening illnesses. Demelza also support their families and loved ones from diagnosis through to bereavement.

The food and drink concept was well received by guest of honour, MP Clive Efford, who enjoyed canapes and prosecco with locals at The Red Lion's launch night on 3 June. James also used the event to present a representative of Demelza with a cheque for £250.

Year 7s sleep on the job

ELTHAM Hill pupils made £800 for charity by lying in bed, writes Nichola Dixon.

A sleepover for Year 7 took place to raise awareness of gender inequality and fundraise for the charity, 'A thousand schools for a Thousand girls' which campaigns to give under-privileged girls an education. The night included fun activities such as sports contests, a disco, treasure hunts, photo-shoots and a talent show.

During the sleepover, pupils shared their stories from the night on the hashtag #iwokeuplikethis inspired by singer Beyonce's empowering anthem 'Flawless'. The event was organised by the new head girl team with support from Year 10s.

Let's work together

Whether you live, work, learn or volunteer in the borough, the council wants you to have a voice. Using a range of channels such as community meetings, surveys or the website, the council welcomes your views on issues that need addressing. It also wants to work with residents to find solutions to make a difference to the borough.

The council is running regular meetings where residents can meet their local councillors and bring their concerns and issues to the table for all to discuss.

From September there will be a schedule of area-based meetings for local communities to discuss issues particularly relevant to their area and meet their ward councillors and senior council officers.

It's a chance for residents to provide information on local issues, for council staff to identify local priorities and for everyone to work together to improve our local area. The issues and priorities that are raised here can be used to influence council decision-making and the meetings are also an opportunity for the councillors to inform residents of their roles and what they do.

Meet the leader sessions will give residents the opportunity to meet the leader and deputy leader of the council. The leader is the councillor who heads the largest political group represented on the council and is the most senior member of the council, leading the decision-making process and directing policy and budget setting.

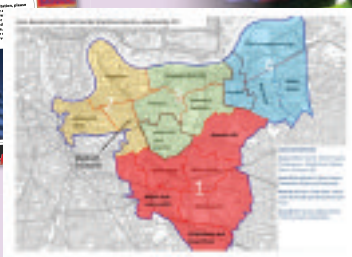

At these sessions, residents can put questions and concerns directly to the leader and deputy leader. The leader's Q&A aims to create a direct dialogue with the public on the challenges facing local government.

The leader's Q&A will take place three times a year and the area meetings will take place in each area three times a year in January, May and September.

The results from the residents survey

MORE than 1500 people from across the borough were surveyed over the phone earlier in the year. The majority of Greenwich residents said that they were happy with their local area as a place to live and had a higher opinion of living in the royal borough than in other parts of London and you think the council does a good job.

More than half of residents said that they wanted to be kept informed of what local public services were doing to improve the area, and a further third stated that they wanted to actively be involved in helping to improve services. The council is introducing a programme of area meetings to help residents do this.

Residents were asked to choose the main factors that make somewhere a good place to live, and the top responses were transport and connections, and schools and education.

The council has been working with TfL to improve transport links, and with Crossrail beginning service in 2018 and the completion of the London Bridge upgrades also scheduled for that year this will ensure better and more reliable rail services.

Cllr Miranda Williams, cabinet member for children and young people commenting on schools in the borough said, "We are proud that 92 per cent of our schools are now judged to be 'good' or 'outstanding'. We know this has been achieved by a relentless pursuit of high quality standards, in partnership with school leaders, with parents and with children and young people themselves."

THE spectacular Greenwich+Docklands Festival celebrates its 21st birthday this year with an even more fantastic programme of events than ever before.

Part of the Royal Greenwich Festivals, London's largest outdoor festival of arts includes six world premieres and five UK premieres, with hundreds of performers heading our way.

Bradley Hemmings, the festival's artistic director, said: “Over the festival's lifetime, there's been a revolution in our national appetite for outdoor cultural experiences and GDIF has played a proud part in this story, building from a local festival to one of the most influential festivals of outdoor arts in Europe.

“I'm thrilled to see the festival come of age in 2016 with more venues and sites than in any previous year.”

With performances across the royal borough and the East End north of the river, there is a flavour of what is to come with the opening night, this Friday (June 24) starting at 10pm.

Entitled The House, it is a mythical look at the rise and fall of civilizations and has been specially commissioned to mark the 400th anniversary of the Queen's House at the National Maritime Museum in Greenwich, which re-opens after restoration later this year.

The performance includes video projections, hip hop, pyrotechnics and performance, with narration by award-winning actor Sharon D Clarke and the voice of Sir Ian McKellen.

Greenwich town centre will be closed to traffic for the Greenwich Fair on the weekend of June 25 & 26 when visitors will be hard-pressed to choose between the 21 different acts taking place around the car-free streets. They include circus, theatre, dance, games, cabaret – and the opportunity for mass participation.

Throughout the following week (June 27-July 1), Well Hall Pleasaunce in Eltham, with Greenwich Dance, will host Moat Island, a free after-school programme for under-12s with dance, theatre, puppetry and workshops.

The spectacles move to Woolwich for the final events of the festival on Saturday, July 2 when Ignite! brings a herd of mechanical animals to the town centre and the Royal Arsenal at 9pm.

The programme of street arts, which includes a performance on a 13-tonne digger, is inspired by Woolwich's manufacturing and industrial past, and also takes a look into the future and the town's cultural ambitions.

The Clash of Drums, at 10pm on Saturday in the Royal Artillery Barracks, will bring events to a fantastic close with fireworks, drummers and street theatre.

Cllr Denise Scott-McDonald, cabinet member for culture, creative industries and community wellbeing, said: "This summer, residents and visitors have been enjoying – and participating in – a fantastic array of events during the Royal Greenwich Festivals.

"I'm delighted that once again Greenwich+Docklands International Festival will form a central part of those celebrations and I congratulate GDIF on their 21st anniversary!"

A NEW opera makes its world premiere at Blackheath Halls next week with a composition written for Trinity Laban students. Banished is based on the true story of women prisoners, many of them from London, who were sent to Australia in the 19th century. Students at the conservatoire who will be performing in the show have been researching the histories of the women at the National Maritime Museum.

The convicts were mainly guilty of minor offences in today's eyes but Banished tells how they overcame their differences and faced adversity together.

Award-winning composer Stephen McNeff said: "The women in the opera are all based on real people and take their names, so the students identify particularly strongly with characters who were a very similar age."

Banished, which contains strong language and has scenes of an adult nature, is at Blackheath Halls, Lee Road, Blackheath from Wednesday, June 29 until Saturday, July 2 nightly at 7.30pm.

A double celebration

THE popular international acoustic music and dance nights at Mycenae House, Blackheath continue this week with Bards Without Borders.

The monthly events organised by Global Fusion Music & Arts bring music from around the world, with performances last month from Botswana.

The evening on Friday, June 24 is part of the 400-year celebrations of the death of William Shakespeare as well as marking Refugee Week, which runs from June 20-26.

Featuring live music and dance, including ceilidh and other traditions, there will also be new poetry, inspired by the Bard's work. Anyone interested in performing is welcome to join in.

● The evening starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £6, £4 concessions – for more information email info@globalfusionarts.co.uk or call 020 8858 9497.

● Global Fusion Music & Arts is still campaigning to raise £6,000 to organise events for Black History Month in October.

A crowdfunding appeal was launched last month and is open for donations until July 23.

Project manager Louisa Le Marchand said: "A big thank you to those who have donated already but we have a long way to go to reach our target."

Events are already being planned for the GFMA Black History Month project – it will start with a celebration of 50 years of Botswana independence on October 1.

Other performances planned so far include African Women, a play by Ugandan playwright Milly Namukasa, celebrating Ugandan Independence Day, a Nigerian night and a fashion show.

GFMA will also provide free workshops for children around the themes of Black History Month on October 29 at Charlton House.

● To support the GFMA appeal go to <http://www.crowdfunder.co.uk/gfma-black-history-month-events/>

Building artistic skills

NOVEL DIY project comes to Greenwich Peninsula where visitors are invited to make their own bricks.

The People's Brick Company opens a summer-long exhibition at the NOW Gallery on Friday, June 24 which will see a constantly evolving display constructed from thousands of bricks.

Each of the bricks will be hand-made and individually stamped by members of the public taking part. The bricks will be left to dry in the exhibition and will then be fired together in a public celebration on September 17. "Once fired, they will be made into a permanent folly, serving as a reminder that architecture can be simple and inclusive," said a spokeswoman.

● The exhibition runs until September 18 at the Gateway Pavilions, Peninsula Square – more details at <http://nowgallery.co.uk>

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 499

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band BI/B2 both in priority date order. Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- BI or B2 is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and BI/B2.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of three ways

- Text bidding is now available and the number to use is 07786207913. For further information please see page 2, or
- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 29 June 2016 at midday. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 26 June 2016.

Club members were also well placed in other events at both regattas. Head coach Maurice Coughlan said he was delighted with the squad's performance over the long weekend.

"It has been very satisfying and rewarding to be surrounded by such a positive squad; their hard work and dedication throughout winter training has paid off, and the results from these races show this," he said.

"The season has only really just begun and already we have bettered last season's results. The overall performance is very, very promising with everyone placed well at the top of the draw."

He said he was now looking forward to a number of future events over the summer including Henley Royal and Women's regattas, and the British Rowing Junior Championships.

An ace tennis club

A royal borough tennis club has aged others in the south-east by winning the prestigious title of 2016 London and the South East Club of the year.

Shooters Hill Lawn Tennis Club is celebrating after it won the award last month. The club beat others from Middlesex, Surrey, Sussex and Essex and was presented with the award by Stuart Smith OBE, former President of the Lawn Tennis Association.

Club captain Phil Layfield told GT: "It is an unbelievable achievement for the club to have won the award in front of so many big clubs in the South East. It is a great credit to all the members from the four-year-old tots to those playing in retirement all enjoying their tennis at Shooters Hill. It has put tennis on the map for the royal borough so let's see if we can find the next Wimbledon champion."

Shooters Hill Lawn Tennis Club currently has 550 members, including 350 juniors, from across the local community. This is its largest membership since it was formed in 1927 as part of a golf club. It boasts six all-weather, floodlit courts and provides social play, tournaments, inter-club team matches, with unlimited access 365 days a year. It caters for all ages and abilities.

Champion of the future

A BUDDING young driver is following in the footsteps of his hero, Lewis Hamilton, and rising up the ranks of the karting championships.

Bobby Grove, 15, from Abbey Wood has only been competing in tournaments for 18 months but already has proven himself to be a top competitor. The Year 10 Woolwich Polytechnic student races nearly every weekend while still making sure that he does well at school as he is studying for his GCSEs.

Racing in the Junior X30 division, Bobby is competing in three championships and at the halfway mark in the season is currently sitting in pole position in the Kent Karting and Bayford Meadows Championships, and second in the Buckmore Park Championship – the course where Lewis Hamilton originally earned his stripes.

Bobby first took a kart around the track at 13 and within seven months had won his first championship. He now races under the number 44 – the same number the young Lewis Hamilton used to have.

Bobby's mother, Rowena, said: "Bobby has made us very proud. He's had a passion for cars since he was three years old and obviously has such a talent for it. I am hoping that he is given a chance to race in other major racing events and one day achieves his Formula One dream."

FORMULA 1 FOR SUCCESS: Bobby leads the way on the track inset, the young driver behind the wheel
